Angels Interleague History a Success

As the Angels prepare for the start of interleague play in San Diego this Friday, they should do so with confidence. Since the start of 2007, they possess the top MLB interleague record of 62-28, having outscored their opponents 489-351.

Dominating Interleague Play

In the 15 years since the format began, the Angels rank third behind only the Yankees and White Sox as the most successful interleague franchise. In 266 games, they have amassed a 152-114 record and equally impressive .571 winning percentage.

Angels vs. the National League

The Angels have experienced tremendous interleague success, just ask the Dodgers. The Angels enjoy an overall .614 winning percentage in contests between the two teams. Indeed, the Angels have competed against all 16 National League teams, outscoring their opponents by a combined 1,307 to 1,152 and enduring losing records to only the Giants and Cardinals.
